Lawyer Elects Higher Trial On Licence Forgery Charge

A Victoria lawyer, charged with forgery in connection with the obtaining of a marriage licence, elected trial in county court when he appeared in city police court yesterday.

Elmer V. Finland, 948 Old Esquimalt, was remanded by Magistrate Henry Hall to next Wednesday to fix a date for preliminary hearing.

Two of the four counts read against the accused say he forged the names of W. J. E. Brookbank and R. N. Langton to department of health and welfare application forms requiring parental consent in issuing a licence for Burke E. Brookbank and Patricia N. Langton to marry.

In the other counts, accused is charged with using, dealing and with acting on these documents as if they were genuine, while knowing them to have been forged.

Accused is free on bail of $1,000.

Two concurrent sentences of six months each were handed down yesterday to Pauline Matthews, 78 Scott Block, who had pleaded guilty to two charges of obtaining goods valued at more than $50 from the Hudson's Bay Company store.

The charges, resulting from investigation at the store, specified two separate periods during which accused obtained goods and charged them to fictitious accounts.

Log Boom Recovered

The log salvage closure clamped on the Cadboro Bay area last Friday, as the result of the break up of a log boom, has been lifted.

Ian Cameron, district forester, Vancouver, said the closure order had been rescinded "as the logs from the booms in question have now been recovered."

Federal Body Takes Over All Shellfish Research

Shellfish research, formerly handled by the provincial government, will now be undertaken by the federal fisheries department.

Under the December, 1958, agreement between the provincial and federal governments future research will be carried out by the Fisheries Research Board of Canada at the biological station in Nanaimo.

Information and assistance to oyster growers and prospective oyster growers will now be given by the station, and the present inspection of oyster seed imports will be continued, the federal fisheries announcement said.
